

Stay Informed: NCUIH Launches Updated Regulations Tracker for Indian Health Advocacy

Category: Policy Blog

written by Alex Sampson | October 17, 2024

The National Council of Urban Indian Health (NCUIH) recently published an updated regulations tracker (<https://ncuih.org/policy/regulation-tracker/>) on NCUIH's website (<https://ncuih.org/>). The tracker includes relevant regulations and other agency actions that impact Urban Indian Organizations (UIOs) or the health of American Indian and Alaska Native people living in urban areas. It contains information from the Federal Register (<https://www.federalregister.gov/>), Dear Urban Indian Organization Leader Letters (DULLs), Dear Tribal Leader Letters (DTLLs), and other publications that may be helpful to UIO leaders and other advocates for American Indian and Alaska Native health. The tracker is updated on an ongoing basis.