Appropriations Updates

Fiscal Year 2025:

- We are currently in a Continuing Resolution (CR) which is set to expire on December 20, 2024.

- Ways to advocate: Call or email your Representative using the template language provided in the action alert. Contact Congress.
- Why Participate: Shifting these costs to mandatory funding is important to avoid funding impacts for other IHS programs and will enable true increases in funding for essential services.

President Biden Formally Apologizes for Federal Government Involvement in Indian Boarding Schools

On October 28, President Joe Biden visited the Gila River Indian Reservation in Arizona to deliver a historic formal apology on behalf of the federal government for its 150-year policy of forcibly placing Native children in Indian Boarding Schools.

“For 150 years, the government attempted to wipe out our Native cultures by removing and relocating thousands of Native children to boarding schools. The President’s historic apology is a painful reminder of this country’s history and our community’s immense resilience,” said Francys Crevier, J.D. (Algonquin), CEO of NCUIH. “Congress needs to act now and pass the Truth and Healing Commission on Indian Boarding Schools Act, so we can learn from our past and make sure these wrongs are never repeated.”

Why it matters:

- President Biden’s apology follows the Department of Interior’s (DOI) investigative report, which confirms that at least 973 American Indian, Alaska Native, and Native Hawaiian children died while attending federally operated or supported schools and identifies at least 74 marked and unmarked burial sites at 65 different school grounds.
- This act of recognition can foster healing and reconciliation, which are crucial for improving mental and physical health. By validating the experiences of Indigenous peoples and addressing the traumas associated with these institutions, the apology may encourage increased access to health care resources, culturally competent care, and a greater focus on mental health support. Ultimately, such measures can help bridge the gap in health disparities and promote overall well-being within these communities.

Next Steps: Congress must swiftly pass the Truth and Healing Commission on Indian Boarding

Recent Highlights: CMS Approves Medicaid Coverage for Traditional Healing Services in Four States, USDA Final Rule on Food Distribution Improves Access to Urban Native Communities

CMS Approves Medicaid Coverage for Traditional Healing Services

On October 16, CMS announced that they approved section 1115 demonstration amendments that allow, for the first time ever, Medicaid and Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP) coverage of traditional health care practices provided by IHS facilities, Tribal facilities, and UIOs in four states: California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Oregon.

Urban Indian Organizations and State-Specific Waivers:

1. Arizona \(AHCCCS\): Traditional Healing is covered for IHS and Tribal facilities. UIOs are not explicitly included as covered facilities. However, Traditional health care practitioners or providers at UIOs contracting with an IHS or Tribal facility could be included.
2. California \(CalAIM\): California will have expenditure authority to provide coverage for traditional health care practices received through IHS, Tribal, or UIO facilities by Medicaid and CHIP beneficiaries who are able to receive services delivered by or through these facilities. The state will initially provide this coverage only to beneficiaries eligible to participate in the Drug Medi-Cal Organized Delivery system. However, California will have authority to expand coverage to all Medicaid beneficiaries who receive services delivered by or through an IHS, Tribal, or UIO facility.
3. New Mexico \(Turquoise Care\): The state will have expenditure authority to provide coverage for Traditional Healing practices received through IHS, Tribes, or UIO facilities.

4. Oregon \(OHP\): Traditional health care practices received through IHS, Tribal, or UIO facilities will be covered when provided to a Medicaid or CHIP beneficiary who is able to receive services delivered by or through these qualifying providers. State expenditures for Traditional Healing delivered at UIOs will receive the applicable state service match.

USDA Publishes Final Rule on Food Distribution Programs: Improving Access and Parity

On October 31, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) published a final rule revising the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations (FDPIR), removing the urban place requirement which “limits the operation of FDPIR in approved near areas and/or service areas that have a population of 10,000 people or more.” NCUIH had previously submitted comments on October 13, 2023, in response to the agency’s request for comments.

Why it matters:

- Prior to this final rule, FDPIR regulations restricted any urban place outside of the reservation boundaries from receiving FDPIR services unless an Indian Tribal Organization (ITO) or State agency requests to serve the urban place with a justification.
- This final rule codifies the removal of references to urban places and the associated requirement that an FDPIR ITO or State Agency must provide justification to FNS to serve urban places off the reservation.
- By removing the urban place requirements and encouraging Tribal and state collaboration with urban areas, FNS can make significant steps toward eliminating food insecurity for urban American Indians and Alaska Natives. This change takes a significant step towards addressing food insecurity in these populations.
